

HEAD OF PROGRAM DEVELOPMENT

NYCO is a French independent and privately-owned company, expert in the development and manufacture of high-performance lubricants and synthetic ester bases for Aeronautics, Defence, Industry and Automotive. Research is at the heart of our activities in order to develop tailor-made solutions for our customers and to meet the most demanding specifications.

JOB DESCRIPTION

Reporting to the Aeronautics & Defence Business Unit Director, the Head of Program Development is in charge of the interface between OEMs (airframers, engines manufacturers, component manufacturers, etc.) and NYCO's Research & Development. Your main role is to ensure the promotion and qualification of NYCO products towards OEMs (Original Equipment Manufacturer) engineering offices, program managers and customer supports. But also, to follow the test campaigns with those actors regarding planning and technical aspects.

The Head of Program Development responsibilities include but are not limited to:

- Coordination and Management of the Program department (international team);
- Visiting airframers / OEMs to promote new technologies, to increase safety and efficiency;
- Driving the NYCO R&D OEM related projects for new technologies;
- Assisting sales teams while dealing with airlines and armies on the technical aspects of NYCO Products;
- Assisting airlines and armies at clarifying the use of greases / hydraulic fluid and oil (rationalization);
- Qualifying NYCO products in airframers and OEMs documentations;
- Performing training to airlines / armies / airframers / OEM.

PROFILE

To perform the missions, the Head of Program Development position requires a graduated with an engineering degree or equivalent (5 years after high school) and justifies of at least 5 years' experience within the aeronautic business. Candidates must be familiar with technical documentation used on a daily-basis by salesmen and military operators (AMM, CMM, SB, AD, etc.). This position gives support to the sales department regarding technical questions. It is subject to travel.

Fluent in French and English

Based in Paris 8th

CDI – full time

Please send your resume to Céline LAFAGE: celine.lafage@nyco.fr